

A Christmas message from Cardinal Nichols:

As I look back on the year that is now drawing to a close, one moment stands out, full of impact and resonance. On 8 September, Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II died. On that day, we mourned the loss of a unique and gracious mother, grandmother and great-grandmother. We cherished her life of unstinting service, her example of devotion to duty, her steadfast witness of faith in Jesus Christ and his promises. From the moment of her death carpets of flowers, messages and mementoes grew by the day. People lined our roads to pay their respects as her coffin passed by. It is estimated that half of the population of the world watched the funeral service from Westminster Abbey. But the four days during which more than 350,000 people queued, for up to fourteen hours, to honour the late Queen at her lying-in-state in Westminster Hall were the most telling. This procession became a pilgrimage. For many a personal sense of grief and loss was united in a communal movement and in a shared desire to find and give meaning to a unique and powerful moment. Suffering and death always challenge our sense of purpose and meaning. This unique death laid bare our longing for clear signposts by which to continue the journey of life.

It was a moment for facing the dreadful possibility that life is, ultimately, futile or – alternatively – for remembering an ancient hope. Many priests took part in that pilgrimage. They told how, while queuing, they heard many confessions and spoke and prayed with many of those whom they met. And theirs was an experience shared by many. In a similar way the magnificent processions of those days lifted us out of personal reflection towards a greater horizon. With each person playing their own part with true selflessness, they showed us the vital importance of ritual in forging us into something greater. In those ten days vital human and spiritual needs, often hidden or ignored, became increasingly evident. Like an underground stream bursting into the sunlight, we saw something of our deeper characteristics as people and a nation: our esteem for service, our desire for coherence, our wish for an answer to isolation. From birth to death, and at all the significant milestones in between, celebration, communal ritual and community matter. They matter whether we are religious or not. They matter because they speak to life itself in all its joy and griefs. In this light we should rejoice in the wonderful gift of our Catholic faith, in our liturgical rites – especially the Mass – and in our spiritual traditions and devotions. Through them we understand ourselves and our world in the light of Christ's death and resurrection. We learn how to read our own lives into the great narrative of our redemption. We must treasure the rituals we receive and the reality they bestow. We always need to nourish and refresh them, handing them on to our children and those who will come after we are gone. This faith makes us into a people of profound hope: immersed fully in this life, yet with hearts attuned to God's kingdom and to the truth and beauty of heaven. In this faith we can enter thoroughly into the ebb and flow of existence, with all its failings, sorrows and joys. We are not afraid. Another lesson is to be drawn from those remarkable days. The Gospel we are commissioned to announce may be unfamiliar to many today. But we must never think of it as foreign or alien to those around us. On the contrary, the Gospel meets the deepest yearnings of the human spirit, yearnings which only to surface at times such as these. Living as an adult human being means accepting the burden of mortality, with its suffering and death. Yet even these darkest moments rarely extinguish our profound longing that, in the end, nothing has been totally in vain. The Gospel tells us that what we long for is true. Every last drop of our effort, in weariness and tears, is brought to fulfilment in and through Christ Jesus. His promise is the response to the deepest instincts and yearning of humanity, a response that brings freedom and consolation to all who will embrace it. It is ours for the receiving. These days of Christmas, then, give us great encouragement in the task of announcing this Gospel of Jesus Christ, for it is indeed the Good News for which humanity longs. Our shared humanity is the bedrock of the work of evangelisation. And it is our privilege to undertake that work every day. A very happy Christmas to you all, and may God bless you.

FR CHRIS WRITES: Pope Benedict described himself as a humble worker in the vineyard of the Lord when he appeared on the balcony of Saint Peters in 2005 after his election. We can say well done good and faithful servant. He fulfilled his ministry as successor of Peter by being a rock of unity and confirming his brothers and sisters in the faith. He was a faithful successor of Saint Peter who sought to do the best he knew how for the Lord.

As he said in his inaugural homily: My real programme of governance is not to do my own will, not to pursue my own ideas, but to listen, together with the whole Church, to the word and the will of the Lord, to be guided by Him, so that He himself will lead the Church at this hour of our history. He faithfully sought to implement Vatican II to which he had been an important contributor as a young theologian. He wrote many things over the years and had the gift of being a good teacher as many have said. His general audiences had the highest attendance figures of any Pope and his wonderful series of teachings are well worth reading, especially the talks he gave on various Saints. His three encyclicals on love hope and faith (the latter published by Pope Francis) are wonderful Christian meditations on these divine gifts. Also his three books on Jesus of Nazareth, written as a theologian, are masterpieces of a profound Christian faith and scholarship. However, the deepest truth about him is that he was a man who loved Christ with a simple faith who only desired friendship with Christ. His last words were "Jesus, I love you". I think too the gift of humility was so important as well. It enabled him to be a man of Christ, a man serving the church though with an intellect considered amongst the greatest of the last century. He only desired to help others encounter Christ and have friendship with him. We pray for him, that the Lord will forgive any remaining sins and that he may pass swiftly through the purifying flames of love in Purgatory and come to the Lord.

FR CHRIS WRITES:

This week on Wednesday we begin the Octave of prayer for Christian Unity. The details of prayer meetings are in the Newsletter. As Christians we pray together at various times particularly at this time seeking the unity that Christ willed for his Church so that the world may believe. We have come a long way as Christians both on a local level and also in the relationships between churches and communities as such. One of the achievements of Pope Benedict the 16th as cardinal was to reach an ecumenical agreement with the Lutheran Church on the nature of justification of the Christian which you may remember was one of the breaking points at the time of the Reformation. Much sadly of the issue at the time of the reformation was a failure to listen to each other. It was basically found that we agreed. That is important but also is important the daily witness of Christians working together in outreach which goes on very quietly in different ways. Our churches together in Market Harborough sponsors some things such as the food bank, The Bower House the action for justice and peace and of course we have the Cube and the Torch Trust for the Blind and many other hidden things. There are prayer sessions during the week as well as the United service on Sunday 22nd January at 3.00pm at the Baptist church which forms the final of prayer and worship together.

Funerals: Rosina Lanni died at Sibbertoft manor on Christmas day cum sanctis. Her funeral will be on 27th January at 10.00am. Also Liz Tuoy died and her funeral will be 18th January at 11.00am.

'GOING DEEPER' Do you want to go deeper into your Catholic spiritual life and prayer life? A monthly 'Going Deeper' gathering will continue on Tuesday 17 January at 6.30pm and continue thereafter on the third Tuesday of the month. It will begin in the Kavanagh Room. The main components of the meeting will be: the evening prayer of the Church; discussion of a classic text on prayer by one of the great spiritual teachers, a period of silent prayer. The plan is to finish around 8pm. For more information, email Cyprian Blamires on cpblamires@aol.com or phone him on 01858 468224 or 07714 651756.

The first meeting for parents will take place on Thursday 19th January 2023 at 7.00pm in the Octagonal Hall when we will introduce the course and give out the plan. The first session for children will take place on Sunday 22 January 2023 from 10.20am- 11.20am and each session will take place in between the Masses with the children joining their parents and the congregation after the Liturgy of the Word.

FIRST COMMUNION: We are still looking for new people and some from a Younger generation who would like to be part of a team to prepare our children for next July. This is a very great ministry and full of great blessings. Please speak or ring Fr Chris. A DBS clearance would need to be done.

FR CHRIS WRITES:

On Sunday afternoon we have a our annual Service for Christian Unity at the Baptist church which is our neighbour Church at 3.00pm. we pray together for Christian Unity. This is an all-age Service in which children are most welcome. It would be lovely to fill the church to give witness to our Christian faith which the world is so in need of.

A message from the chair of Churches Together Rev Andy Murphy (Methodist church):

When we share in fellowship and prayer together, from our different churches, it is such a blessing, and it feels like God is bringing us on a journey. St. Paul writes in 1 Corinthians: "I appeal to you, brothers and sisters, by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that all of you should be in agreement and that there should be no divisions among you, but that you should be united in the same mind and the same purpose" (1 Cor 1:10). That does seem like a tall order! And, of course, it's impossible if my prayer is that everyone else agrees with me! However, if my prayer is that I will be open to listening to others, that I will treat my fellow followers of Jesus with love and respect, that I will be open to my views and beliefs being expanded and transformed by the Holy Spirit, then perhaps a gentler, more humble unity is possible. It starts with us. It will be a joy to share with you in this coming week, and may our prayers together be a sign of what is in store as God carries us on this journey. With every blessing, in Christ, Andy Murphy.

We have a second collection this weekend for the sick and retired priests fund which provides grants to priests such that they have a minimum level of income. We raised a lot of money for it in recent years and this just topped it up to keep it viable given the demographic of the priests in our diocese.

PS There is a lady in Fleckney who needs a lift to church. Is there anyone who can oblige?

Funerals Rosina Lanni died at Sibbertoft manor on Christmas day cum sanctis. Her funeral will be on 27th January at 10.00am. Grace Cotter died last Saturday morning. Her funeral will be on Friday 3rd February at 10.00am

HOLOCAUST MEMORIAL DAY, 27 January: Bishop Declan Lang, Chair of the Bishop's Conference's International Affairs department, is encouraging to pause and remember the millions who were murdered and pray that "love will triumph over evil." On Holocaust Memorial Day, we pray for the six million people who were murdered and all those affected by the Holocaust. We also remember those who suffered and died in the genocides that followed. "This year's theme is Ordinary People, recognizing that it was ordinary people who fell victim to ordinary people perpetrating evil acts, while so many ordinary people stood by. It was also the bravery and selflessness of ordinary people that helped to rescue others. "Each one of us has the capacity for both immense good and for evil. As we take a moment to pause from our daily lives, let us reflect upon our own responsibility to prevent future genocides and consider how we view marginalised people in our communities. We commit ourselves to stand against anti-semitism, injustice and prejudice wherever it might be found. "Together we remember the Holocaust and pray that love will triumph over evil."

Some words from Pope Francis in an address to Participants in a liturgical Conference in Rome on Saturday.

One of the aims of the Council was to accompany the faithful in recovering the capacity to live liturgical action fully and to be astonished at what happens in the celebration under our very eyes (cf. Desiderio desideravi, 31). Note that it does not speak about aesthetic joy, for example, or the aesthetic sense, no, but rather wonder. Wonder is different to aesthetic pleasure: it is the encounter with God. Only the encounter with the Lord gives you wonder. .... And finally, I urge you to cultivate silence. In this age, we talk, we talk... Silence. Especially before the celebrations – a moment that is at times taken for a social gathering. We talk: "Ah, how are you? Is everything going well? Why not?". Silence helps the assembly and concelebrants to concentrate on what is to be done. Often sacristies are noisy before and after celebrations, but silence opens and prepares for the mystery: it is silence that enables you to prepare for the mystery, it permits its assimilation, and lets the echo of the Word that is listened to resound. Fraternity is beautiful; greeting one another is beautiful, but it is the encounter with Jesus that gives meaning to our gathering, to our coming together. We must rediscover and cherish silence!

INTER CARE WITH LACY: Leicestershire Active Catholic Youth warmly invite all young people, families and friends to join them on Sunday 12th March at 2.00 p.m. in a social walk, doing laps of Knighton Park, Leicester to raise funds for Inter Care. Inter Care provides free access to medical aid for vulnerable patients across sub-Saharan Africa. Take on board as short or long a walk as you wish.
